DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

1. Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:
 - I. Claims 1-3, drawn to a method for constructing a recombinant gene encoding a fusion protein comprising a streptavidin-binding peptide (SBP) and a single-chain variable antibody fragment (scFv), classified in class 435, subclass 69.1.
 - II. Claims 4-10, drawn to a SBP-scFv fusion protein, classified in class 424, subclass 192.1.
 - III. Claims 11-15, drawn to a method of detecting using a SBP-scFv fusion protein, classified in class 435, subclass 4.
2. The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:
 - a) Inventions I and II are related as process of making and product made. The inventions are distinct if either or both of the following can be shown: (1) that the process as claimed can be used to make other and materially different product or (2) that the product as claimed can be made by another and materially different process (MPEP § 806.05(f)). In the instant case the product can be made by a materially different process such as ligating the various fusion protein components together instead of producing the fusion protein in a vector. A search for the fusion protein and the method of making the fusion protein would be a serious burden because literature may speak to the fusion protein and its characteristics, without referencing a method of using the fusion protein.

Art Unit: 1648

b) Inventions II and III are related as product and process of use. The inventions can be shown to be distinct if either or both of the following can be shown: (1) the process for using the product as claimed can be practiced with another materially different product or (2) the product as claimed can be used in a materially different process of using that product (MPEP § 806.05(h)). In the instant case the product can be used in a materially different method of use such as in a method of inducing an immune response, which requires administration of the fusion protein to a host. A search for both the product and its use would be a serious burden because literature that speaks to the product will not necessarily reveal the various methods of using it. A search of the literature may reveal dedicated articles to a method of producing the product and not its use.

c) Inventions I and III are separate methods that either use or result in the same fusion protein. The method steps are completely different from each other, as Group I is drawn to a method of producing a fusion protein, while the method of Group II is drawn to using the fusion protein to detect VEE. These methods do not share common modes of operation, function or effect. These methods are not disclosed as useable together. A search for both methods would be a serious burden, as methods of producing fusion proteins and methods of using fusion proteins are classified separately and require different steps to achieve their separate objectives.

Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and the literature search required for one group is not coextensive for any other group, and therefore a serious burden on the examiner, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper. Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143). Applicant is reminded that upon the cancellation of claims to a non-elected invention, the inventorship must be amended in compliance with 37 CFR 1.48(b) if one or more of the currently named inventors is no longer an inventor of at least one claim remaining in the application. Any amendment of inventorship must be accompanied by a request under 37 CFR 1.48(b) and by the fee required under 37 CFR 1.17(i).

3. The examiner has required restriction between product and process claims. Where applicant elects claims directed to the product, and a product claim is subsequently found allowable, withdrawn process claims that depend from or otherwise include all the limitations of the allowable product claim will be rejoined in accordance with the provisions of MPEP § 821.04. Process claims that depend from or otherwise include all the limitations of the patentable product will be entered as a matter of right if the amendment is presented prior to final rejection or allowance, whichever is earlier. Amendments submitted after final rejection are governed by 37 CFR 1.116; amendments submitted after allowance are governed by 37 CFR 1.312.

In the event of rejoinder, the requirement for restriction between the product claims and the rejoined process claims will be withdrawn, and the rejoined process claims will be fully examined for patentability in accordance with 37 CFR 1.104. Thus, to be allowable, the rejoined claims must meet all criteria for patentability including the requirements of 35 U.S.C. 101, 102, 103, and 112. Until an elected product claim is found allowable, an otherwise proper restriction requirement between product claims and process claims may be maintained. Withdrawn process claims that are not commensurate in scope with an allowed product claim will not be rejoined. See "Guidance on Treatment of Product and Process Claims in light of In re Ochiai, In re Brouwer and 35 U.S.C. § 103(b),” 1184 O.G. 86 (March 26, 1996). Additionally, in order to retain the right to rejoinder in accordance with the above policy, Applicant is advised that the process claims should be amended during prosecution either to maintain dependency on the product claims or to otherwise include the limitations of the product claims. Failure to do so may result in a loss of the right to rejoinder. Further, note that the prohibition against double patenting rejections of 35 U.S.C. 121 does not apply where the restriction requirement is withdrawn by the examiner before the patent issues. See MPEP § 804.01.
